FIUME OCCUPIED BY ITALIAN TROOPS, REPORT

'MICROBE OF LOVE' WILL BE SHOWN AS
AID TO MONUMENT
FUND OF THE U. D. C.

First Rehearsal for the Production Will be Held on Thursday Night

MISS MARIE KIMBROUGH WILL BE THE DIRECTOR

"We Are Determined That Monument Shall be Built," Miss Dancy Says

"The Microbe of Love," said to be one of the most entertaining local talent plays ever produced, will be presented here on Friday night, January 7, by home talent under the auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Proceeds from the entertainment will go to the chapter's monument fund.

The performance will be under the direction of Miss Marie Kimbrough, former popular local girl, who was very successful in production of the entertainment at Huntsville recently, a large amount being raised for charitable purposes.

The first rehearsal for the show will be held Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the rooms of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, according to an announcement by Miss Mary Lou Dancy, chapter leader. All local talent willing to participate was urged to be present Thursday night when the production will be cast.

The story of the play concerns the activities of certain spinners and bachelors whose desire for matrimony follows a bite from "the microbe of love." The plot is declared to provide many ridiculous situations and the dialogue is well flavored with catchy airs.

"We have been making efforts for many years to build a monument here to the heroes of the South," declared Miss Dancy. "The entertainment to be given in January is one of the initial steps toward realization of the dream. We are determined that the monument shall be erected."

MANY BONUSES ARE PAID IN TWIN CITIES

CHRISTMAS GIFTS RECEIVED BY EMPLOYEES OF MANY LOCAL CONCERNS

Bonuses were received during the Christmas holidays by the employees of many of the local firms. Employees of several local cotton concerns were perhaps the most fortunate recipients, several of the companies giving their employees bonuses of one month's salary. Others gave employees bonuses of two weeks' salary.

The Alabama Power Company's employees received bonuses based on their length of service with the company. A minimum of $5 was paid for those who have been in the employ of the company less than a year. Employees of The Daily found a present of cash in their pay envelopes as a gift from the management.

Other large corporations in the city were generous and many stores also distributed gifts and bonuses. It is likely that this kind of giving totaled more than it did last season.

Selling Children for as Low as 20 Cents Horrible Conditions in China Revealed

Millions of Souls Will be Famine's Toll if Relief is Not Forthcoming From the American People Soon

Rev. Hendon M. Harris of Kaifeng, China, son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Powell of West Seventh street, Albany, and seminary mate of Dr. W. P. Wilks and Rev. C. C. Davison, in a recent letter confirms former reports of the famine conditions in China. He states that seven provinces are affected and that some people are selling their children for as low as 20 cents each with the hope that they may be fed. He paints an awful picture of scenes he witnessed in a former famine and affirms that conditions at present are more awful and overwhelming. He tells of people dying like flies along the roadside and in the dirt and filth of the streets and the awful scourge of typhus that follows every great famine.

"The sights, the odors, the poverty, the filth and the disease of China beggar description," Mr. Harris is secretary of the relief committee in his province and states that his committee has received $100,000 already, but that "it is not a drop in a bucket as one-third has been used to aid in buying seed wheat where all had been consumed for food." The need will be $5,000,000 in Hunan alone, not to speak of the more than $200,000,000 needed in the whole district to supplement with a little rice the diet of grass, bark, roots, leaves and cotton seed hulls that the people are now eating.

TWELVE PERSONS
DIE IN DISORDERS
SINCE CHRISTMAS

(International News Service)
DUBLIN, Dec. 28.—Twelve persons have been killed and 19 wounded in Irish violence since Christmas, according to figures revealed here today. The totals give civilians killed 11, wounded 17; policemen killed 1, wounded 2. A new wave of Irish violence has followed the Christmas holidays, chiefly in the martial law zone and many shootings and other disorders were reported today.

A farmer was killed in county Tyrone by a band of armed men who were raiding farms. Two civilians were shot to death at Ballydwyer. A woman was killed at Limerick. Two large clothing stores were burned in the business district of Tipperary. The Irish jails are so full of prisoners that many arrested persons are being sent to Welsh jails.

Hard Tasks Face
Congress in 1921

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The dawn of the New Year will find Congress still wrestling with the fundamental problems confronting the country—taxation, tariff and foreign trade—with little prospect of a satisfactory solution being found for either before March 4, it was predicted today. In the judgment of Democratic and Republican leaders alike, the problems will arise to vex the Harding administration and the new Congress as much as the difficult question of foreign relations.

It is conceded by both sides that the omnibus tariff bill, passed by the House, will not pass the Senate unless it is amended materially. A number of paragraphs, inserted in the House, will be stripped from the act in the Senate.

Mangled Body Is Found on Tracks

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Dec. 28.—The mangled body of an unidentified white man, ground under the wheels of a train between Simpson street and John's avenue, was found early today. Portions of the body, from which the head was severed, were found over a distance of 150 feet. The clothing was so badly torn it was impossible to identify the remains.

MAYFLOWER IS THREATENED BY
"GALLEY" FIRE

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Fire, which broke out in the galley today, for a time threatened the destruction of the presidential yacht Mayflower. Concerted efforts by sailors and men of the fire fighting force at the Washington navy yards checked the flames. It was said the damage done can be readily repaired.

FUNDAMENTAL OF BUSINESS LIFE IS GOOD IN AMERICA

Notwithstanding a lot of talk about hard times, the business of the United States is in an exceedingly prosperous condition. There is a latent buying power in the country that is difficult to estimate. The stage of transformation through which we are passing is a good omen and an assurance of satisfactory business progress throughout next year.

Those organizations that have withstood the test are now reorganizing, re-establishing for the volume of business that will be in the open market for competitive companies in various lines of business on an equal competitive basis. When the ball of business begins to roll, its speed and volume will increase also and it will only be those who are physically, mentally and financially fit who will be able to keep pace with it.

This is the keynote of optimism struck by J. F. Bowman, general sales manager of a big motor truck company of Lima, Ohio, in an interview a few days ago on business conditions as he has seen them in a country-wide investigation made with the aid of his force.

"History has repeated itself down through the ages," said Mr. Bowman. "Every international war and national disturbance has been followed by hard times. We cannot expect conditions to resume a pre-war basis in an unbroken line of price cutting events or in any short space of time. As a nation, we have been remarkably fortunate. Statistical records unfold to us the weird fact that it required thirteen years for prices to resume or decline to the point from which they started to soar after the Civil War. Encouraging, isn't it? Again after the Napoleonic Wars it took ten years for commodity prices to return to a normal level."

"To many it may be surprising that financial wizards, who have studied deflationary phenomena following in the wake of wars, revealed to us the pessimistic news that the decline thus far over which we have all become so elated, anticipating further declines, has reached its temporary logical limit."

"Generally the readjustment of the nation's business to the normal basis has proceeded in an orderly manner. Undoubtedly small organizations have been compelled to put up the shutters but organizations with the rock bottom foundations have withstood the mighty tempest. The fact that the strain has been released considerably is sufficient to indicate the condition of national affairs."

CHRISTMAS RUSH
AT LAST MINUTE
GREATEST EVER

"The heaviest week's work in the history of the Albany postoffice," was the verdict of Albany postoffice officials on the Christmas rush.

"We didn't do such a very large business up to December 18," said a postoffice clerk, "but the business we did on the 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th more than made up for it."

W. G. Gentry, veteran mailing clerk, set the counting apparatus on the electric cancelling machine at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of December 21. Seventy-two hours later, December 24, the machine showed that it had cancelled 26,457 letters and Christmas cards. All this mail was handled without a hitch in addition to thousands of pieces of outgoing and incoming Christmas parcels.

FRIENDS OF SHOALS

OR ENTIRE PROJECT
DOOMED, IT IS SAID

Republicans Plan to Cut Off Appropriation for Completion of the Work

IMMEDIATE ACTION IS NECESSARY BY FRIENDS

Secretary Baker Has Trouble "Convincing" the Republican Committee Members

Unless the friends of Muscle Shoals bring all pressure possible to bear upon the Republican members of the House, particularly members of the steering committee, the appropriation for completion of the Wilson dam is doomed, according to information received here by members of the Tennessee River Improvement Association today.

The Republican steering committee already has agreed to eliminate the item carrying an appropriation of $10,000,000 to finish the work on the dam, it was stated, and unless the members of the committee can be changed in their opinion, the committee's report will be made the legislative program of the House majority and the government will find itself in the position of having spent millions on the preliminary work at the dam, but without sufficient funds to complete the project.

It is declared that the fertilizer trust, generally conceded to be fighting the Muscle Shoals development, has convinced many members of the House that the appropriation should be eliminated in the interest of economy. The project was attacked in the Graham report as a "useless expenditure."

Secretary of War Baker, who is in favor of the development of the nitrate possibilities on the Tennessee, is conducting an active campaign to keep the appropriation item in the measures, but, being a Democrat, the secretary is experiencing little success in convincing the Republican committeemen that it is necessary in order to make the United States independent of the Chilean nitrate supply.

ALEX RICE DEAD AT MONTGOMERY

(International News Service)
MONTGOMERY, Dec. 28.—Alex Rice, one of Alabama's best known merchants, died here last night following an operation last February from which he never recovered. Mr. Rice was born in Bohl, Bavaria, in 1849 and was educated in the public schools of Germany. He had lived in Montgomery for 40 years. Soon after coming to the United States he secured a position as clerk in a general merchandise store in Indianapolis, Ind., where he lived until 1870. He moved from Indianapolis to Selma, Ala., where he operated a clothing store until he moved to Montgomery in 1882, opening a clothing store there. At the time of his death he was a member of the Odd Fellows, Elks, Knights of Pythias, Masons, Shrine, Bnai Brith, Rotary Club and the chamber of commerce. He is survived by his wife, one son, Julian Rice, two daughters, Mrs. Leo Meyer and Miss Irma Rice. Funeral arrangements will be announced later today.

President to Use
His Veto Freely

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—President Wilson is determined to exercise the veto on certain legislation pending, it was revealed today. The resolution creating the war finance corporation, to extend aid to agricultural interests, was predicted at the white house. The resolution extending the time of the railroads to divest themselves of their interest in railroad equipment companies, in accordance with the Clayton act, will also meet with a presidential veto it was said.

The thermometer registered 38 during Monday as the lowest mark reached during the 24 hour period.

HARDING IS AGAINST ANY FILIBUSTER ON FARM TARIFF BILL

(International News Service)
MARION, O., Dec. 28.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota found a wide range of subjects opened to him when he conferred today with Senator Harding. Senator McCumber is ranking member, at present, of the Senate finance committee which has in charge the new tariff legislation, vigorously opposed by Democratic members of Congress. Possibilities of a Democratic filibuster, as indicated by Senator Harrison and others, were fully discussed by the President-elect and his senatorial colleague.

Senator Harding in his Minneapolis speech during the campaign advocated strongly a tariff for the protection of farm products and is known to be strongly interested in the pending legislation. An indication of Senator Harding's attitude toward Democratic obstructive tactics may be gleaned from an editorial appearing today in The Marion Star, of which he is still editor.

The Star points out what it declares is the manifest absurdity of a system which permits a defeated party to obstruct or delay measures favored by the successful party for four months after election.

Oscar F. Straus of New York, former secretary of commerce and labor in the Roosevelt cabinet, came to Marion to discuss with Senator Harding the financial situation and the complications now imminent in Europe. He has been regarded as a possible ambassador to Germany.

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—President Wilson is today celebrating his 64th birthday anniversary. The day found the President in better health than last year but his improvement is a slow and gradual process. The family was with him today but no plans for a special celebration had been made.

Have you identified yourself with the Automobile Campaign? Several have cast their lot with the big enterprise and have started out courageously on their quest for the votes and subscriptions with which to win one of the splendid prizes offered in the big campaign.

If some one told you that money in hanks of from $25 to $2025 could be picked up at some certain place, you would not be long in "gittin' thar," would you? If you knew that you had as good a chance as any other twenty or perhaps twenty-five others to find this reward, you would be willing to work day and night for months in order to find the larger sum.

But are you sure that you are not overlooking just such an opportunity by not entering the automobile circulation campaign, where there are a few conditions under which to gain these amounts as though they were lying loose on the street, with no one to claim them?

ROME, Dec. 28.—"There is reason to believe regular Italian troops have occupied Fiume," Premier Giolitti announced today.

NINE ARE KILLED

(International News Service)
PARIS, Dec. 28.—Nine civilian residents of Fiume have been killed and 30 wounded by the bombardment of that city by Italian regulars, said a dispatch from Milan today. A new version of the manner in which Gabrielle D'Annunzio was wounded came from Milan. It was said that a shell from a warship in the harbor struck the governor's palace and exploded and that a fragment struck the war-poet.

Fiume is completely surrounded by government troops. There is still no confirmation of the report that D'Annunzio is dead. A portion of that section of Fiume near the water front has been wrecked by shells from the regulars' artillery, according to reports received here from Udine.

RESIDENCE STONED

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 28.—Premier Giolitti has announced that Fiume would be occupied either tonight or Wednesday morning, according to an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Rome. An Italian crowd, sympathetic to Gabrielle D'Annunzio, attacked and stoned Premier Giolitti's residence in Rome, according to a Rome dispatch to The Daily Express. It is reported in Rome that two attempts at rebellion at Fiume were suppressed by D'Annunzio.

TO TAKE CITY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—General Caviglia, Italian commander, will take Fiume at all costs but has orders to avoid bloodshed if possible, according to advices to the State Department today. His advance is necessarily slow, the report said, and yesterday he encountered some opposition.

An opportunity such as that offered you by The Daily is an opportunity seldom given, and the prospects of winning such valuable rewards should be grasped immediately and striven for earnestly. THE "OPEN SHOP" CAMPAIGN

The public statement of the Commission of the Church and Social Service of the Federal Council of the Churches of America, criticizing what it terms a "wide spread campaign for destruction of the union labor movement," is calculated to create as widespread discussion as the recent charges that the Inter-church World Movement went on the rocks because of its report on the conditions in the steel industry.

The statement of the church council is an interesting addition to the collection of opinions on the present industrial unrest in America. Many will not agree with the commission's attitude, others will. But whether the stand is in accord with the individual opinion of each person who reads the statement or not, it shows a groping toward light in the industrial darkness that is commendable.

Undoubtedly there is some common ground upon which capital and labor may meet and establish peace. It is a wise mind, indeed, that can forecast what conditions would satisfy the employer and the employee in all lines in every section, but the discovery of those conditions should be the aim of every individual who desires freedom from turmoil and dissatisfaction in industry.

The statement of the commission follows: "The relations between employers and workers throughout the United States are seriously affected at this moment by a campaign which is being conducted for the 'open shop' policy—the so-called 'American plan' of employment. These terms are now being frequently used to designate establishments that are definitely anti-union. Obviously, a shop of this kind is not an 'open shop' but a 'closed shop'—closed against members of labor unions.

"We feel impelled to call public attention to the fact that a very widespread impression exists that the present 'open shop' campaign is inspired in many quarters by this antagonism to union labor. Many disinterested persons are convinced that an attempt is being made to destroy the organized labor movement. Any such attempt must be viewed with apprehension by fair-minded people.

"When, for example, an applicant for work is compelled to sign a contract pledging himself against affiliation with a union, or when a union man is discharged or refused employment, merely on the ground of union membership, the employer is using coercive methods and is violating the fundamental principle of an open shop. Such action is unfair and inimical to economic freedom and to the interest of society as is corresponding coercion exercised by labor bodies in behalf of the closed shop.

"It seems incumbent upon Christian employers to scrutinize carefully any movement, however plausible, which is likely to result in denying to the workers such affiliation as will in their judgment best safeguard their interests and promote their welfare, and to precipitate disastrous industrial conflicts at a time when the country needs good will and co-operation between employers and employees."

A FAMOUS NAME

Eddie Rickenbacker is convinced that a famous name oftentimes is a greater impediment than one not known to the world. In the past ten years, Eddie has been making his cognomen known from coast to coast in America by his daring driving on the automobile race track. Then the war came and America entered. Rickenbacker transferred his speed from the ground to the air, his racing vehicle changed overnight from an automobile to a flying machine and Eddie went to France.

His fame, hitherto known only to America, spread to the four corners of the earth and the fearless American ace brought down German planes after plane on the western front. He received decorations from the French and American governments.

Since the armistice, he has been feted in every city he has visited, but poor Eddie, his troubles began almost at the beginning of this year's Christmas time—and through no fault of his own.

A man, giving his name as Eddie Rickenbacker, was received with acclaim in Jacksonville, Fla. The fellow, still using Eddie's signature, procured a marriage license and was wedded to one of Jacksonville's fairest belles. The story was flashed on the press wires. The real Eddie was greatly embarrassed. A prompt denial of the marriage of the real Eddie was made, both by himself and his friends. The impostor disappeared and a search was started for him.

Then Eddie decided to take a trip. He reached Chicago—and was arrested. The police thought he was the impostor. But Eddie got established his identity and the cops apologized. Poor Eddie—the next time he sees a particularly unbelievable movie story before his eyes, he will be the last to criticize the author for a perverted imagination. Eddie is a man of experience if there ever was one.

TIME TO THINK OF NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS, HOW TO KEEP THEM

Today Christmas, for this year at least, becomes history and the future looms. One week hence a new year will start. General men and women have a resolution sometimes, to make for the year. New Year resolutions are the easiest things made and the easiest things broken that one possibly could find. Sometimes they last for a week, but frequently the best of them are broken before the first day of the new year has ended. In exceptional cases they may last throughout the year. Such things have happened, but not often.

As the new year approaches, it might be well for folks to take stock of the resolutions they made at the beginning of this year—and most of them probably will discover a deficit.

In most cases the books simply won't balance. In the average life resolutions broken far exceed resolutions kept. Resolution is the most perishable flower of human character. Its cultivation is the most difficult of enterprises.

It's easier to wink at one's faults than to fight them off; to compromise rather than to insist on the strict letter of the new year contract one makes with one's self.

A man, making a business agreement with another, demands a strict interpretation of every comma, period and semicolon. But he is much easier with himself.

Conscience says: "But you promised me faithfully to do this."

The man answers: "Oh, well, what's the difference?"—and breaks the contract with conscience.

The trouble is the average resolution is a sort of secret treaty. If resolutions were open covenants, openly arrived at, more resolutions would be kept.

One man realized this. So whenever he decided to make a resolution, he told his wife about it. And what his conscience could not compel him to do, pride would not permit him to evade. He didn't want his wife to think him a weakling.

Others might copy his example.—Anniston Star.

ALIENS AND ALCOHOL

It is found that most of the offenders against the prohibition laws are the foreign-born.

It is likewise the alien residents, not the native Americans, who are most vehement in denouncing prohibition as an unwarranted interference with their "personal liberty."

A police judge before whom these offenders are brought in droves, says:

"I have seen violators of foreign birth stand up in the witness chair and threaten to fight me. Not for anything personal, but because I was there to enforce a law that they could see no reason in. I have had violators shake their fist at me across the bench and declare they were entirely within their personal rights in making their own liquor and drinking it, so long as they did not try to sell it.

"They were loud in their declarations that the police had no right to interfere with anything they chose to eat or drink. Their attitude is simply the result of their system in the old country, and they cannot see the reason for subjecting their old habits and customs to the provisions laid down by the law of the land they have adopted."

Most of them are from countries where home-made liquor is the usual thing.

The judge's conclusion is sound—that these people need education more than punishment.

He recommends "community houses with libraries, rest rooms and play rooms where the foreign-born man with his family can spend leisure time amid American refinements, where they will come into constant contact with Americans and get the American viewpoint."

This is expensive and troublesome, but is it any more so than the let-alone policy of the past?—Tuscaloosa News.

"LOST MOTION"

There's a lot of lost motion and inefficiency in the automobile traffic. Here it will take a $4,000 car and a dollar's worth of gasoline to bring a couple of Hollywood lightweights down town. Three outfits like that will take up more room and make more of a disturbance than one of the massive red plush vans of the Pacific Electric Company carrying a hundred passengers. Over twenty thousand autos come into the business district of the city every day. They will not average two passengers to the car. At the same time eighty thousand pedestrians will pass the corner of Fifth and Broadway in a single day. When the twenty thousand joy riders and the 80,000 footpads meet there's a congestion that chills the spine of the traffic cop. No wonder we are killing people off at the rate of more than one a day. But there are five thousand autos in the center of the city daily that, from the standpoint of the efficiency expert, have no business there.—Los Angeles Times.

PRINTING THE NEWS

Publishing facts that injure some one and do not point a moral have no place in The Tuscaloosa News.

The editor of The News shoulders all responsibility when this newspaper is charged with no printing the "news."

Whenever the editor's pen can save innocent wives, mothers and sweethearts from suffering and humiliation, rest assured it will be used, so long as the present name remains at the masthead.

Operating of The Tuscaloosa News does not mean "all of the news all of the time."

It is our desire to print all of the good, clean news that doesn't bring additional grief to aching hearts.

That's the foundation upon which we are endeavoring to build a great newspaper at Tuscaloosa.

Just In Passing

"As I see it," said T. E. Williams,

"what we need is more corn-field fathers."

I am prejudiced that way, perhaps, as I was a corn-field boy. As I look back over our history, my father with twelve children, farming all the while, when I was with him on rented ground and yet 'getting by' as they say now, I cannot understand how it is that people who are making much more than our family did say so much about not making enough to live on.

Of course, one thing: there was perfect discipline. There was never such a thing as a word back when father spoke. We moved at the command and kept moving until the day was done. When I got into the army it was not strict to me. I was used to just such discipline at home. We lived in the country ten miles out of Clanton in Chilton county. To show you how close we had to manage so as to make ends meet and get the children all sent off to school, shoes were used only when the cold made them absolutely necessary. I know of one suit that was 'cut down' six times for six of us boys and I have the photos to prove it. And we never thought of having wheat bread only once in a great while. When I was about ten I recall we had a very cold winter, and the water mill froze up and we could not get any corn meal ground, and as we had no such thing as flour, for a good while we lived on sorghum and black-eyed peas. The peas served as bread.

They were cooked real dry and then we children would mash them up and then pour molasses on them. And this diet tasted good. To give an idea of Christmas, one stick of striped candy on the tree was enough for one child.

"When I got old enough to get off to school, with the backing of my father's O.K., I was able to buy at the country store what clothes I had to have on over twelve months' time. I would go to school a year and then teach around the next year and get out of debt. Then I would go in debt and start to school again.

"I recall when I got through the year at the Baptist Institute at Newton one spring they had another summer course. I told Professor Tate that I was out of money but that I wanted to attend the summer school. 'All right,'

he said, 'I want a boy to look after six cows and slop the hogs, and if you will do that and keep the school building in shape, you can stay.' I stayed.

We called such duties those of an 'orderly' in the army, but I was a 'flunky' at the institute. Still they did not look down on me. I recall I was elected president of the literary society and all such as that.

"When I went to teaching for a living I soon found that would not do. I asked an old established banker how about learning the banking business.

He said, 'All right, come ahead,' so I went to work sweeping out and doing every other thing about the country bank. At the end of the first month I was paid the sum of nothing. The second month I got $10, later I was raised until I was called into the army. Although such a life may seem hard, it did not hurt me, as I kept seeing something on ahead."

UNPLEASANT THOUGHT

"In the midst of the Christmas season there is one unpleasant thought that keeps coming into my mind," said Andrew G. Patterson. "And that is, that soon I will have to move away from Albany and Morgan county. I have reference, of course, to the fact that I am expected, as chairman of the State Public Service Commission, to make my home at the state capital.

While I believe that I will like Montgomery, and that my family will also, still if there ever was any place like home, I never heard of it. As in all matters where the requirements of the law are considered, I feel that I have nothing left to do but to move my residence. This consideration alone could have induced me to sell and prepare to establish a new home at Montgomery. As my interests are here and will continue to be, I will be coming back frequently as will my family, but I would feel better about it if I were coming home every time I return to Albany," concluded Mr. Patterson.

BUSINESS RUSHING

"I notice from conversations with my son, who has been on a visit to us," said Wiley Thomas, well known employee of the L. & N. shops, "that business is rushing in Texas, and especially in Sherman, where my son is a railroad conductor. He tells me that the roads are employing every man they can get and that if there is any unemployment he has not heard of it."

Dad a Graduate, Too

"So the boy is home from college,"

"Yes. Surprises me, too."

"That so?"

"Yes. Marvelous how much more they're teaching boys at that college now than they taught when I went there. I don't begin to know as much as he thinks he knows."

Voice of People

Editor The Albany-Decatur Daily, Albany, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

Your attention is respectfully called to the importance of the world-wide movement for metric standardization of weights and measures. It is an advance in which all are interested.

More than 100,000 petitions are on file with the Department of Commerce

Washington, D. C., demanding legislation which will establish the decimal metric system for general use in the United States after a liberal period of transition. Many of these petitions are from organizations having hundreds and thousands of members.

The present session of Congress is being called upon to enact progressive metric laws. Will not your publication strengthen this demand by strong editorial support? You can aid powerfully in establishing the logical decimal system.

OBITUARY

MRS. KATE HUDSON MAXWELL-POSTELL MOORE

The announcement of the passing to her heavenly home of this most beautiful soul, brings nothing but sweet and pleasurable memories to those who knew her, in many sections of the United States.

All her near family connections and friends are now well along in years, except the children of her husband, Dr. Moore, to whom she had filled a loving mother's place and who thoroughly appreciated her beautiful, loving character, which shone forth not only in her own home, but to her near friends and family connections. She sought no public applause, or popularity. But to her own relatives and friends her character was resplendent and appreciated.

Probably a child of 8 or 10 years at the end of the Confederate war, her parents were of the best in the society of Mobile, Ala., in good circumstances.

Attending Mrs. Stafford's Academy for Young Ladies in Tuscaloosa in the late 60's, she was amongst the most popular of those young ladies, from the most refined families of the state of Alabama. Her companions of those days have probably most of them passed away, but there must be some still alive, whose memories of her are pleasant, all over the state.

Married to Mr. John Thomas Maxwell, second son of Mr. Thos. Maxwell, she graced Tuscaloosa's society in her own quiet way until his death in 1876.

Having sufficient income, she retained her home at the corner across the street to the north from the Catholic church, until it was destroyed by fire.

The wife of Dr. F. A. Barnard, then president of the Columbia University in New York City, who was one of my father's family when John T. Maxwell was an infant, invited his widow to make her a visit in New York. Her lovable qualities soon made her a personal favorite with both her hosts, and they invited her to accompany them to Europe, where Dr. Barnard's scientific plans for the university called him.

She went with them, and on return to New York they were not willing to part with her. Here in this intellectual society she shone, and was a comfort to the childless couple, who had no near relatives congenial to them.

In this New York society she met a Captain Postell, an engineer, whose home was at Cartersville, Ga., but who at the time was on the engineer staff of one of the Pacific railroads, whose headquarters were in New York, whom she finally married, and in course of time they settled down in their home in Cartersville. They had no children, and after some years Captain Postell died, and the widow was again bereft. A sister had married a Mr. R. P. McEntire, a prominent merchant, who finally fixed his central location at Decatur, Ala., and Mrs. Postell found a home open to her there, with them and their children. A cousin, a Doctor

Moore, living in McKinney, Texas, losing his wife, and appreciating the lovable and beautiful character of his relative, finally persuaded her to unite her fortunes with his and to assist him in the care of his motherless ones. The step was a fortunate one for all concerned, and the doctor's children soon came to appreciate their new mother to the fullest extent.

But alas, the angel of death again interfered and this home was broken up by the taking away of the husband and father, and his widow was on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Fannie Hudson McEntire at Decatur, when she too was called away.

Through all these paths and vicissitudes of life, the subject of this sketch carried herself with such poise in prosperity, and submission in adversity, that she retained the affection and esteem and admiration of all her connections, and they will carry those memories of her to the end of their own lives.

JAMES R. MAXWELL.

MORE PROTECTION FOR CANAL SOUGHT

MILITARY LEADERS CONVINCED AMERICA MUST SOME DAY FIGHT FOR ZONE

By DAVID M. CHURCH, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

ANCON, Canal Zone, Dec. 28.—Stronger fortifications for the Panama Canal—this is the cry of the American military and naval men here.

Military leaders among the American forces are thoroughly convinced that some day the United States must fight for the Panama Canal. They argue that commerce is the root of all war and that gradually the world will be awakened to the fact that in the Panama Canal the United States holds the key to the success or failure of a large proportion of world commerce.

President-elect Harding and his party on their recent visit here saw the fortifications of the Panama Canal and they heard suggestions that greater fortifications are necessary. They were noncommittal, but it was generally evident that some of the members of the party were impressed by the need of more fortifications.

"This great work that cost billions is surely worth protection," Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, a member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, said after he had viewed the fortifications.

The Panama Canal is not invulnerable now; that is certain, despite the great guns which poke out of the hills of Panama.

From attack by sea on the Pacific side the Canal seems to be fairly well protected. Fortifications are not quite as well developed on the Atlantic side.

From the air the canal is extremely vulnerable. One well-placed bomb at Gatun locks might ruin the work of many years. Yet at Gatun there are but a few anti-aircraft guns pointing their muzzles to the skies. Gatun is well located for an air attack. It is within easy striking distance for airplanes launched from ships or even flown from fields in adjacent Central American countries. There is a naval air station and an army station within a few miles of Gatun, but the forces at these stations are not large and it is doubtful whether they could withstand any well-organized offense.

At present the naval forces in the Canal Zone comprise a submarine flotilla. Destroyers are promised and it is argued that either the Atlantic or Pacific fleet are within easy calling distance, yet to the untrained eye it appears that a sudden and timely attack might well put the Panama Canal out of action and separate the Pacific and Atlantic fleet.

Whether or not the United States is ever forced to fight for the Panama Canal, and whether or not the fortifications as at present constituted are strong enough, it seems certain that Congress is going to hear more about the needs of defenses for the Canal Zone than any previous Congress has ever heard.

8 GUESTS ATTEND WEDDING IN AIR

FRIENDS OF COUPLE WITNESS CEREMONY PERFORMED ON GIANT PLANE

(International News Service)

CALCUTTA, India (by mail).—A wedding, unique not so much from the fact that it took place in the air, but that eight guests in addition to the parson and the best man were in the machine, was celebrated in a Handley-Page aeroplane flying over Calcutta.

The ceremony, when Miss Vera Garner was married to C. H. Mann, took place when the machine was a mile from the ground. Captain F. R. Stachard, a friend of the bride and bridegroom, was at the wheel.

The Rev. J. H. Easterbrook was the officiating clergyman. The flight was no new novelty for him, as he was on active service in France and made several flights there.

A large number of guests remained on the ground, watching the machine, which climbed remarkably fast, and reached 6000 feet in 45 minutes.

The engine was then shut off and the ceremony commenced as the aeroplane began to glide to earth. The words of the service were perfectly audible, and the happy couple were man and wife well before the machine returned to earth. The whole flight occupied about one hour.

In the machine was a cinema operator, who took a complete film of the ceremony.

80 Years Old—Fit as a Fiddle

"I had a bad case of stomach and bowel trouble that four doctors could not help. Suffered all kinds of pain, was filled with gas and constipated for years. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. COTTON MARKET OPENING IS EASIER

DECLINE DUE TO ANNOUNCEMENT OF SUSPENSION OF BANK OF BARCELONA

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The cotton market opened easier today owing to weak cables at Liverpool. The decline abroad was due to the announcement of the suspension of the Bank of Barcelona. Trade was quite active here early. Liverpool and Wall street interests were the heaviest sellers on the decline while demand was scattered. Spot houses sold on January. After selling off about ten points under the initial level, the market struck covering orders which rallied prices slightly and the list at the end of the first 20 minutes was about 22 points net lower.

JAPANESE MAKE TOYS FOR AMERICA

WORKSHOPS OF SANTA CLAUS IN FAR-OFF LAND OF NIPPON.

(International News Service)

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 28.—The Santa Claus of the war-away Rhine country has been displaced in these parts by the quaint little Oriental St. Nicholas of the Japanese. For several weeks Japanese liners and freighters have been shipping Japanese toys to this port for dissemination among the children of the Northwest.

The first big shipment arrived a few days ago aboard a giant Japanese liner bearing 7000 cases of Japanese toys. Even the cases appear to be Nipponese toys, being bound in strips of bamboo and scented straw. The attractively and daintily made toys include every imaginable plaything from a baby's rattle to an aeroplane.

Several hundred pounds of the playthings consist of tin soldiers. The Japanese toymakers proved themselves either good salesmen or perhaps adepts at child diplomacy by giving their tin soldiers American uniforms.

A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.

The stockings were hung by the chimney with care, In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there.

The children were nestled all snug in their beds, While visions of sugarplums danced in their heads; And Mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap, Had just settled our brains for a long winter nap—

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter, I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter. Away to the window I flew like a flash, Tore open the shutters, and threw up the sash; The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow Gave a luster of midday to objects below;

MISSIONARY SOCIETY FIRST M. E. CHURCH

The Missionary Society of the First M. E. church, Decatur, met on Monday with Mrs. Clyde Hendrix, for the all day Mission study. Mrs. McGehee lead the devotional, giving an inspiring talk on "Soul Winning."

The society was fortunate in having Miss Lura Davis, of Brewton, Ala., as the leader of the lesson for the day, she gave a most interesting and helpful study of the medical missionary, showing the high physical, mental and spiritual standard demanded of the candidate, that he might be able to meet the demand of the field. After an intermission for lunch, the meeting was continued, Mrs. Brown leading the devotional, using the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians as the scripture lesson, the Mission Study was then completed.
